Welcome to Madrid and to the Third Annual Conference of the Memory Studies Association!

After the founding conference in Amsterdam in December 2016, the MSA’s “legal birth” on 26 June 2017, and the successful Copenhagen conference in December 2017, lots of things have happened. In the last 18 months, we have continued working to make the MSA into a hub for the rapidly growing and interdisciplinary field of memory studies:

• We further expanded the webpage as a place to find the information you need—on academic literature, jobs, conferences, career advice, lecture recordings, teaching practices, a members’ directory and more.

• In addition to the partnership agreement with the Memory Studies journal and Sage Publications, which gives free access to the journal for all of our members, we launched the “first book in memory studies” and “best paper presented at the MSA” awards. This year’s book award will be presented during the conference.

• Starting with our issue on “Memory of Joy” in January 2019, the MSA will edit one issue of Memory Studies per year. Each will bring highlights from the conference and provide an overview of what is happening in the association.

• In early 2018, we kicked off our Mentorship Program to provide assistance to junior memory scholars (and those who would like to move into practice-oriented fields) by matching them with more experienced colleagues. There will be a mentor’s breakfast on June 27 at 8:00. Please stop by or email info@memorystudiesassociation.org to learn more about the program.

• Many of you have been active in setting up and joining more than twenty working groups and regional groups that facilitate collaboration and scholarly exchange on specific topics or specific geographical areas within memory.
Welcome studies. We provided them with space on our website, a grant program so that working groups can organize their own events, and more. Here in Madrid, a number of working and regional groups have submitted their own panel streams and organised workshops on June 25th. Join one by going to our website and meet like-minded colleagues for coffee on June 27 at 11:15 (more details later in the program)!

• In addition to our large annual conference, some regional meetings are in the works. For instance the MSA Africa regional group will hold its first conference on October 17-19, 2019 at the University of Pretoria in South Africa.

• We organized a methodology workshop and fifteen masterclasses on various methods taught by experts on June 25. Most of them were booked up so quickly that we know there is a demand for more methodological training. We are planning more offerings for future conferences and a working group on methodology is in formation.

• In order to expand the number of excellent publishing outlets in the field, we started the MSA Berghahn Books Series Worlds of Memory. Come to the official launch on June 26 at 10:00 after the Publishing Roundtable and consider us for your next book!

The MSA is still a project-in-the-making and staffed entirely by volunteers. So we hope that many of you will get involved in shaping this new organization over the coming years. We continue to envision the association as an inclusive network where scholars and practitioners, people who are junior and more senior, and researchers of different regions and approaches can meet, exchange ideas and feel equally at home. We hope that the MSA will become the organization able to represent your interests as the memory field is further institutionalized under the challenging conditions of academic life in the twenty-first century.

Our conference program promises to provide many engaging discussions and opportunities for meeting like-minded scholars and practitioners in the field of remembrance. After the successful Amsterdam and Copenhagen conferences, it was clear that there was a demand for more opportunities for memory scholars and practitioners to gather. Nonetheless, we were overwhelmed by the extraordinary response we received to our Call for Papers for 2019. This year’s conference will bring over 1500 participants to Madrid –almost three times more than to Copenhagen! This created a number of logistical challenges but also provided certainty that the MSA is needed.

Given the positive feedback from previous years, we have designed the panels in a way that encourages lively exchanges –many of them with shorter presentations and more time for debate. We have organized events to address professional development questions faced by memory scholars: publishing, pedagogy, and methodology. We have assembled roundtables that bring together many of the most exciting personalities in memory studies to debate pressing questions of theoretical innovation, real-world impact, and the future of our field. And we have built in lots of opportunities to meet informally, over coffee, lunch, movies, exhibitions and dinner.

We wish everyone a fruitful conference and a lovely time in Madrid with old and new friends! After months of electronic communication, we look forward to meeting all of you in person! And we hope to see you again at the fourth conference of the Memory Studies Association in Charlottesville in June 2020! Watch our website for our Call for Papers and the opening of the submission system in August 2019.

Please get involved in the MSA and let us know what you would like to see done: email us, talk to us, or most importantly, please join us for the official MSA members’ meeting on June 28 at 9:00!

Your Co-Presidents

Aline Sierp  Jenny Wüstenberg  Jeffrey Olick
Greetings from the MSA2019
Local Organizing Committee!

We would like to warmly welcome all MSA2019 participants to Madrid. When over a year ago MSA asked us to organize the third conference of the association in June 2019, we were thrilled at the prospect of bringing such an exciting event and hundreds of memory scholars to our city, but we surely never expected the scale and complexity this was going to take. Step by step we have been involved in the challenging endeavor of organizing the largest conference ever held in the field of memory studies while disposing of limited resources and even less experience. However, during this last year and a half, we have constantly been growing with our responsibilities and we hope that you are all happy with the outcome of our effort, and that you enjoy this year's MSA conference in all its aspects.

The growth of MSA as a global organization and the increasing richness and constant transformation of the field of memory studies are clearly reflected by the impressive length, richness and depth of the conference program, which provides a powerful and comprehensive map of the area today. Besides the already established routines of the former MSA gatherings in Amsterdam and Copenhagen, there are two elements in the 2019 conference we want to highlight. First, we thought that one central theme of the conference should be to promote a better knowledge and engagement of non-Western epistemologies of the past, as a necessary step in making the field more open-ended and inclusive. Second, in this same vein, Madrid appeared to us as a superb opportunity to further promote the ongoing cooperation between English and Spanish speaking memory scholars, so the program has some bilingual spaces that we will try to bridge through different modalities of simultaneous or consecutive translation.

In our opinion, both the university campus and the city as a whole provide the best possible scenario for a conference of this nature. Madrid is an attractive, open, busy, and welcoming city, particularly in early summer. Of course we want everybody to submerge themselves in the many wonders and surprises that the academic face of the conference offers –including keynotes, roundtables, special sessions, panels, posters, exhibits, tours, performances, a theater play and a film festival–, but we also encourage you to walk to the center of town, visit the monuments and museums, taste the deservedly acclaimed Spanish food and perhaps more importantly, indulge with friends and colleagues in the celebrated Madrid street terraces for a beer or a glass of wine at night.
Welcome

2019 marks the 80th anniversary of the end of the Spanish Civil War and the Republican Exile, and there are traces of these events in the program. The facility where most of the conference will take place, the Faculty of Philology, is itself a powerful and multi-layered memory site connected to the Spanish Civil War. When you stroll through its halls, sit down in its classrooms or, more generally, when you walk across the campus of Complutense University, you may be aware that this area was a crucial part of the frontline during the long siege of Madrid in the Spanish Civil War. The image of the ruined building on the MSA2019 conference poster and program is in fact the very Faculty where this conference takes place as it stood in 1939, right after the end of the war, showing all the scars of bombings and heavy combats. Many buildings in the campus area still have bullet marks in their walls. Very close to the main facility, near the Ciudad Universitaria metro station, you may also find the monument to the International Brigades, which was inaugurated in 2011 and is frequently vandalized. Very recently, the large avenue connecting the campus with the neighboring area of Moncloa, where the Arch of Triumph commissioned by Franco –finished in 1959– still stands, was renamed by the City Council as the Avenue of Memory, in an attempt to revert the narrative of military victory inscribed in the urban fabric during the dictatorship in this area of Madrid. No doubt, this seems like a very suitable location for a conference on memory studies.

Looking forward to a very fruitful conference for all of you, for all of us!

Sincerely,

the Local Organizing Committee

Memory Studies Association Code of Conduct

The Memory Studies Association is a professional association of scholars and practitioners that exists to advance scholarly exchange in the broad field of memory studies. As such, its members agree to abide by the highest standards of professional conduct and civil discourse in all interactions, whether at official meetings, Association-sponsored events, or in professional relationships (e.g. mentoring or internships) that emerge from it. The MSA stands against harassment and disparagement of any kind, and its members are cognizant of the effects differentials in power and prestige can have in professional relationships. Furthermore, the Association welcomes members and participants of every national and ethnic origin, race, creed, color, citizenship, gender identity and sexual orientation. As scholars and professionals, we are committed to exchanging ideas in a civil fashion, and are mindful of disparities of power, wealth, and security.
CONFERENCE VENUES

The MSA Conference Madrid 2019 will take place at the Moncloa Campus of the Complutense University of Madrid. The headquarters of the conference will be the main building of the Faculty of Philology and Philosophy, but due to the large attendance we have been obliged to split the activities with another philology faculty building, the Faculty of Geography and History and the nearby “Pablo VI” Conference Center.

All these buildings are in the same campus and/or within walking distance.

Getting to UCM

The UCM is located at “Ciudad Universitaria” at the center of the city. Madrid’s public transport system offers easy, fast and convenient transport not only within the city limits, but also to destinations outside Madrid. The closest Metro station to the Campus is “Ciudad Universitaria” (Line 6, gray). You will have to walk 10’ to the Faculty of Philology and Philosophy. The metro runs approximately every 4-8 minutes.

TICKETS

All pay-per-ride tickets must be loaded onto a Tarjeta Multi, a contactless, transferable plastic smartcard that you can purchase for 2.50 at all Metro stations from ticket machines that have a red sticker saying Tarjeta MULTI Disponible AQUÍ. For further information go to https://www.esmadrid.com/en/madrid-metro.

It can be purchased in all stations of the Metro network on the machines marked with a red sticker with the “MULTI Card Available HERE” notice.

You can check how to get to the UCM by public transport at: https://www.metromadrid.es/en/travel-in-the-metro/card-types
Please note the Jardín Botánico closes at 4:00 pm. After that time, you will have to continue along C/P. Aranguren and turn right down C/ Antonio Novais in order to get from the Philology Faculty to the Pablo VI Conference Centre.

VENUES

(1) Faculty of Philology and Philosophy Building A
Address: Plaza Menéndez Pelayo s/n, Ciudad Universitaria, 28040 Madrid
Metro: Ciudad Universitaria

This will be the main venue of the conference. It will host most of the activities, parallel sessions, lunches, coffees, special sessions, poster presentations, publishers’ tables, etc.

Important: It will be necessary to go through building A to complete the accreditation to the conference that will allow you access to all the programmed activities. We kindly ask you to always carry your identification, it will make things much easier for us.

(2) Faculty of Philology Building D
Address: Calle del Profesor Aranguren, 2 Ciudad Universitaria, 28040 Madrid
Metro: Ciudad Universitaria

This building is 3’ walk from building A. It will be used for a parallel Keynote roundtable and plenary sessions as it has a conference room prepared for simultaneous interpretation. Other activities will also take place in this building.
(3) Faculty of Geography and History Building B
Address: Calle del Profesor Aranguren s/n, Ciudad Universitaria, 28040, Madrid
Metro: Ciudad Universitaria

This is just 2’ walking distance from the faculty of philology Edificio D. It will be used for a parallel keynote roundtable as it has a conference room prepared for simultaneous interpretation. No other activities will take place in this building.

(4) “Pablo VI” Conference Center
Address: Paseo de Juan XXIII, 3, 28040 Madrid
Metro: Vicente Aleixandre

This conference centre is located 20’ walk from the main headquarters. In this conference room all the plenary sessions will be held and streamed to the Paraninfo room in Edificio A and to the conference room in Edificio D, both prepared for simultaneous interpretation.

(5) Casa de Velázquez
Address: Calle Paul Guinard, 3, Ciudad Universitaria, 28040 Madrid
Metro: Ciudad Universitaria

Instructions to Access the Conference WIFI

General Information

1. Connection Instructions
   - First, display on your device the list of available wireless networks. Select the UCM-CONGRESO network.
   - If it’s the first time (*) that you connect to the UCM-CONGRESO network, you’ll be requested to introduce the following password:
     - Wifi password: congresosUCM
   (*)After the first connection to the UCM-CONGRESO wifi, the following connections should be automatic without the need to introduce the password.
   - The authentication portal of the UCM Conference Wireless Network should automatically open. If it does not open automatically, you should just open any web browser (for example: google, mozilla or google chrome...) and enter any URL (for example: http://www.google.es), and you’ll be automatically redirected to the authentication portal.
   - At the portal you will see a form, which you should fill in with the following credentials (*), and then press ‘Login’:
     - Username: third@congreso.ucm.es
     - Password: annual19
   (*)These credentials will be valid from the working day prior to the start of the conference until the day following the close of the conference.
   - Once you have logged-in, an information page will appear and the connection will be established.

2. Configuration requirements of your devices
   It’s essential that the network configuration of your devices:
   - Has the automatic request for IP address (by DHCP) and DNS servers enabled.
   - Does not have a Proxy Server defined in the Internet Browser settings.
3. Available services

The UCM Conference Wireless Network offers the following services:

- Web browsing (http and https protocols).
- Establishment of VPN tunnels (Virtual Private Network) only outward from the UCM.
- SSH (Secure SHell)

4. Support

- If you have any problem with the wireless connection, please ask any of the organizers of the Conference. They will gladly give you a hand.

09:00 – 15:00 | Venue: Building A, Room 41 | Carabanchel Prison site

METHODOLOGY WORKSHOP (fully booked)
Facilitators: Lidia Mateo Leivas and Rebecca Dolgoy

This year’s methodology workshop explores site-specific collaborative research.
Pre-conference Events

Participants will engage in a series of activities aimed at exploring the various pasts of the demolished Prison of Carabanchel. We will visit the spot where the prison used to be together with activist and local collectives that want it to be a memory site and a hospital for neighbors. They are also fighting against the only building still in existence, a migrant detention center. Through these activities, we will consider the opportunities and challenges of collaborative work, as well as various concerns when attempting to bridge local, national, and transnational memory work.

Schedule:

9:00 – 9:45 (UCM) Introduction to Carabanchel memory by Carmen Ortiz (CCHS-CSIC).

9:45 – 10:00 (UCM) Pick up coffee and departure to the site.

10:00 – 10:30 Bus ride.

10:30 – 12:00 Carabanchel Site Visit with activists and local collectives.

12:00 – 12:30 Bus ride.

12:30 – 13:00 (UCM) Pick up lunches and head to classrooms.

13:00 – 15:00 (UCM) Group Sessions (led by specialists/scholars) and presentations.

15:30 – 17:30 | Venue: Building A

METHODOLOGY MASTERCLASSSES

Free and open to all conference participants (coffee provided), though many are already fully booked.

Taught by experienced researchers, these Masterclasses are meant for junior scholars and anyone who wants to try something a little out of their comfort zone. Each 2-hour class will offer concise primers on particular approaches, as well as resources for you to develop your methodological skills. Masterclasses will also offer excellent opportunities to network with like-minded people.

1. Interviewing [room 416]
   led by Clelia Clini (Loughborough University, London)

2. Digital Approaches and Network Analysis [room 41] led by Sara Jones (University of Birmingham), and Emilie Pine (University College Dublin)

3. Participant Observation Masterclass [room S36] led by Sarah Gensburger (CNRS)

4. Community-Engaged Research [room 44]
   led by Audrey Rousseau (Université du Québec en Outaouais)
5. Cognitive Approaches [room 48]
   led by William Hirst (New School for Social Research)

6. Audience Research [room 45]
   led by Irit Dekel (Friedrich Schiller University Jena)

7. Working With/Across Media – Semiotic Approaches to the Study of Memory [room 43] (fully booked) led by Daniele Salerno (University of Bologna)

8. Oral History and Family Memory/History: Methodological and Interpretive Approaches [room “Salón de Grados”] (fully booked) led by Anna Green (Victoria University of Wellington)

9. Participatory Theatre and Memory [room S30] led by Katarzyna Niziołek (University of Bialystok)

10. Narrating (Post)-Memory [room 15] (fully booked) led by Delphine Munos (Goethe University Frankfurt)

11. Mnemonic Narratives — Literary Forms of Remembering and Storytelling [room 420] (fully booked) led by Rebekah Vince (University of Durham) and Hanna Teichler (Goethe University Frankfurt)

Mechanisms for Remembering: A Workshop
Alex Kelly (Third Angel Theatre Company)
Maximum:12 participants

How do we remember? How do we find and tell memories? How might memories become performance?

A workshop demonstrating techniques designed to allow participants to access memories, and draw on those memories to tell their own stories, in a safe space, and without feeling the pressure of coming up with ‘good material’. Exercises that allow participants to be both an expert in their own experience, and also be ‘put on the spot’ and so re-discover memories that are not just the stories we always tell.
The workshop draws on exercises developed for the creation of a number of Third Angel shows, in particular Senseless (1998), Where From Here (2000), The Lad Lit Project (2005). These performances all draw on personal memories and, to a greater or lesser extent, reflect on the nature of memory, and how we re-tell memories of the past as a way of constructing our identities in the present.

MEDIA AND CULTURAL MEMORY

INTERDISCIPLINARY SERIES

Edited by Astrid Erll and Ansgar Nünning

This interdisciplinary series addresses the relationship between media and cultural memory. Its publications study how media construct, store, and disseminate memory. The series focuses on different media and technologies, such as text and image, cinema and new digital media, and on transmediality, intermediality, and remediation, as well as on the social (and increasingly transnational and transcultural) contexts of mediated memory. The aim of the series is to provide a vibrant international platform for research and scholarly exchange in the field of cultural memory studies. Manuscripts submitted to the series are peer reviewed by expert referees.

If you are interested in publishing in this series, please contact lydia.white@degruyter.com

Fourth Annual Meeting of the Memory Studies Association Charlottesville, 18-20 June 2020: Democracy and Memory

We are very pleased to announce that the 2020 Annual Meeting of the MSA will take place at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, Virginia (USA) on June 18-21, 2020. Though Charlottesville only recently came to international attention because of the violent gathering of white nationalists and counter-protests that took place in August 2017, and because of President Donald Trump’s notorious reaction to them, Charlottesville has long held an unusual and complex place in U. S. history. It is the birthplace of three U. S. Presidents (Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, and James Monroe), all of whom were slaveholders, as well as home to Merriweather Lewis and William Clark, who were tasked by their neighbor Jefferson to undertake their famous Northwest expedition. Charlottesville has a long and difficult history, and it is this history that made—and makes—Charlottesville such a potent terrain for debates about the complexities of history and memory.

Since 2017, the University of Virginia has undertaken a number of efforts to examine its own complex and difficult past, including the erection of a memorial to the enslaved laborers who built the university as well as a new “Democracy Initiative.” As part of this Democracy Initiative, “The Memory Project” is focusing specifically on the relationship(s) between democracy and memory, and in particular on what kinds of memory are conducive, and what kinds of memory are antithetical, to democratic politics. This inquiry also matches the memory work being done at Jefferson’s home at Monticello, which has developed new exhibitions and narratives to highlight and explore the complex lives of Jefferson’s slaves, as well as the implications of Jefferson’s slaveholding for American identity. Local activists for racial justice, such as #blacklivesmatter, are raising related concerns. The theme of our Annual Meeting in 2020 will thus be “Memory and Democracy,” though papers in all areas of memory studies will be welcome. Please check memorystudiesassociation.org for updated information and a Call for Papers shortly!
